Annex C

Department of Law

Tutor: Prof. Federica Persano

Research object

The research project aims to analyze relevant aspects of energy in the light of International and European Law

Research structure

The research will focus primarily on the theme of the evolution of the European Union energy policy. This is essential to define the regulatory framework in relation to the issue in question, especially in light of the EU Court of Justice recent case law. The project will address then the specific issue of the liberalization of electricity and natural gas in the internal market: in this context, particular importance will be given to the relationship between liberalization and consumer protection. Finally, the research will focus on the analysis of the right to energy as a fundamental right of the individual in the case law of the European Court of Human Rights.
