Section 8

Scholarships, lodging information and canteen services

A) Scholarship

Scholarships are assigned by the Teaching Body after evaluation of merit comparisons and according to the order defined by the related ranking that is formulated by the judging Commission.

The Scholarships can be of two types:

- A) scholarships dispensed by the University, by MIUR or other financing body or institution not restricted in matter of research subject;
- B) scholarships financed by external bodies, restricted to the execution of a specific research subject.

B-type scholarships bind the assignees to the execution of such activity. These scholarships - and the corresponding research projects - will be assigned to candidates admitted on the grounds of coherence with their scientific profile in agreement with the external subject financing the scholarship. To that purpose:

- candidates wishing to compete for scholarships tied to a specific research kind are required to express their interest during the interview;

UNIVERSITÀ DEGLI STUDI DI BERGAMO

SERVIZI AMMINISTRATIVI GENERALI SELEZIONI E GESTIONE GIURIDICA

- during evaluation, the judging Commission will indicate the names of suitable candidates whose profiles show a prevalence/preference index in terms of affinity to the kind of research scholarships financed by external bodies. If, after Commission evaluation, no suitable candidate holds a profile considered coherent with the specified research, no scholarship will be assigned.

Externally-financed scholarships are assigned on the condition that the University actually acquires the financing.

Taking the purposes and objectives of the PhD project into consideration, candidates who are assignees of scholarships financed by private external subjects may be offered to convert such scholarships into apprenticeship contracts guaranteed by external bodies for high-formation paths, to be contracted directly with the financing body.

In order to compete for the assignment of a position reserved to foreign scholarship recipients, the candidate shall have to demonstrate to be assignee of a scholarship for the entire duration of the PhD project cycle.

Scholarships are valid for one year and are regulated by current laws and norms.

In case of renunciation from continuing the project or in case of forfeiture of a candidate with scholarship, the candidate loses the right to enjoy the scholarship for the quota not being accrued.

The doctorate candidate may also opt to reject the scholarship at admission time by means of a simple formal notification to the Rector. In such case, the candidate, though maintaining his status, loses any right to enjoy the scholarship and the entire amount, or non-accrued quotas, may be assigned to the first graduate student without scholarship, under the same terms and the same modalities.

The scholarship, whose amount equals to 13.638,47 Euro for each course year, before social security contributions borne by the recipient in accordance with current laws, is paid out in monthly instalments.

The amount of a doctorate scholarship is increased by 50% per any period of actual stay abroad for no less than 30 days and no more than 18 months, subject to authorization of the Teaching Body to operate abroad.

Starting from the second year, each doctoral candidate is assured, in addition to the scholarship or other financial sustainment and within the limit of the budgeted University's financial resources, an amount for research activity either in Italy and abroad, in relation to the type of PhD and, anyway, no less than 10% of the scholarship's value.

Such funds are used according to the modalities provided for research funds assigned to the University's Teaching Body, subject to authorization of the Doctorate Coordinator. If the doctoral candidate is not positively evaluated for the purpose of renewing the scholarship, or should he give it up, any unused amounts stay in the University's availability.

The scholarship has an annual validity and is renewed on the condition that the candidate has completed the activity program expected for the previous year, verified in accordance with the procedures established by the University's Regulations.

The same principles set for the upkeep of scholarships in current University Regulations is applied for the upkeep of apprenticeship contracts and for other financial support forms based on the rules and laws applicable to the years of service after the first year.

The aforementioned principles are not applied to foreign-country recipients or assignees of financial support provided by specific mobility programs in relation to whatever provided by their specific regulations.

B) Scholarship - Legislative Decree No. 68/2012

Graduate students not enjoying other scholarships cannot participate to announcements for scholarship selections backed by Student Support services, starting from mid July till the end of September. Section 9

Graduate Candidate obligations and incompatibilities

A) Rights and Obligations of Graduate Candidates

Admission to doctorate entails an exclusive, full-time commitment, unless otherwise provided by current regulations.

The graduate candidate is asked to participate in all the activities expected for his educational curriculum, as indicated by the college, and to perform all research activities that are assigned to him.

The coordinator is obliged to inform competent offices of any lack of participation on the candidate's side to the requested activities, also to the purpose of suspending money compensations, if necessary.

At the end of each course year, the candidate is to submit a written report to the Teaching Body describing the completed research activity and the results achieved, as well as comments on any participation to seminars and congresses or other scientific initiatives, along with any contingent publications produced. On the grounds of this report, the Teaching Body will approve admission to the following year. A negative evaluation of the Teaching Body will cause disqualification from the PhD, with consequent loss of scholarship and any other financial support.

Before the end of the PhD project, all candidates, except for those who enjoyed suspension periods needing to be recovered, submit their thesis and attachments to the Teaching Body.

Graduate students, considered an integral part of the formation project, may carry out tutoring activities with degree and master degree students, subject to the approval of the Teaching Body and without it causing any increase in the scholarship, as well as integrative didactic activities, the latter limited to maximum forty hours per academic year.

The doctoral candidate can be included, subject to Teaching Body authorization, in research activities carried out at the University and fitting his formation path.

The research doctorate scholarship is subject to the payment of INPS separate-scheme social security contributions as per section 2, para 26, of Law 8 august 1995, No. 335, as amended and supplemented; candidates enjoy the protection and rights thereby connected.

The current norms in terms of leaves without pay or special leaves apply to public employees admitted to PhD's.

The interventions in terms of student support as provided by the Legislative Decree 29 march 2012, No. 68, and the modalities expressed thereby, are extended to doctoral candidates (cfr. s. 8).

Maternity protection, as established by the the Ministry of Labour and Social Security decree 12 July 2007, published in the Official Gazette No. 247 of 23 October 2007 is applied to female candidates.

Subject to authorization of the Teaching Body, the doctoral candidate may carry out a limited external work activity, which must not jeopardize, in any way, the formation, research and any other occasional activity.

Should the Teaching Body request it, the doctoral candidate is committed to confidentiality in relation to all the research activities he takes part to. The current legislation is applied in terms of patents.

B) Incompatibilities

Registration to doctorate projects is incompatible with peer registration to degree courses, completion courses, Active Training Apprenticeships (TFA), Special Habilitation Paths (PAS), Master courses in Italy or abroad, except for those cases of international doctorates and co-tutelage of doctoral thesis. Subscribers to degree or post-graduate/master degree courses, who wish to subscribe to a research doctorate, provided they are entitled to it, must request the provisional suspension of the career. Subscribers to non-medical residency programs are also committed to request the temporary suspension.

C) Suspension, interruption, forfeiture, renunciation and transfers

Attending doctorate courses is compulsory.

Besides the suspension of doctorate courses for those cases provided by current laws regarding maternity and paternity protection, attending course activities can be suspended for a maximum of one year, albeit not consecutive, upon request of the doctoral candidate on the following grounds:

- a) serious and documented illness;

UNIVERSITÀ DEGLI STUDI DI BERGAMO

SERVIZI AMMINISTRATIVI GENERALI

SELEZIONI E GESTIONE GIURIDICA

- b) attending TFA, PAS courses and special education courses;
- c) serious and justifiable family reasons, documented and evaluated by the Teaching Body;
- d) civil service.

In such cases, the rights to the enjoyment of the contingent scholarship are maintained, except for the interruption of payments with subsequent recovery once attendance is re-established, being understood that scholarship annuity may not exceed the duration of the course.

- e) in case of long-term employment by a governmental administration for the duration of the probation period, with consequential renunciation of the scholarship over the same period.

During the deferment of thesis discussions, as per s. 20, para 5 of the current University Regulations in matter of PhD, the suspension can be requested exclusively on maternity or serious illness grounds.

Once the cause for suspension ceases to exist, the Teaching Body deliberates in terms of recovery of the formation activity, being understood that the duration of the course cannot be curtailed in any way.

Forfeiture of the research doctorate, ordered by the Teaching Body by means of a motivated deliberation, is applicable in case of:

- a) negative judgement on the occasion of annual activity verification;
- b) truancy lasting more than 30 days, albeit not consecutive;
- c) behaviours in contract with incompatibility regulations;
- d) in case of work activities lacking a Teaching Body written authorization.

In case of course renunciation, the person involved is committed to inform the coordinator with a month's advance notice. Payments of scholarships or any other form of financing is maintained till the actual date of renunciation, which shall be formalized by a specific declaration addressed to the Rector and submitted to competent offices.

For the discipline of transfers please refer to Art. 19 of the current University Regulations.

The renunciation of the course of the Phd program does not entitle to the refund of what has been paid.

Section 10

Attainment of the qualification

Upon course conclusion, the Teaching Body expresses a judgement on the overall activity of each doctoral candidate.

The Doctor of Philosophy title abbreviated with the writing "Dott.Ric.", i.e. "Ph.D.", is assigned subject to a positive assessment of a research thesis contributing to the progress of knowledge or methodologies in the chosen field of investigation.

Please refer to current University Regulations for all aspects concerning the nomination of judging Commissions, the compliance commitments for graduate students that are admitted to the final examination and the execution modalities of the latter.
