Description of the research project:

The research grant, lasting 18 months, is part of the PNRR project PE5 - CHANGES, spoke 3, Work Package 4 Languages in textual digital archives implementation, exploitation and empowerment. Diachronic interdisciplinary perspectives on multilingualism and cultural contact in Italy (Lead partner University La Sapienza, University in partnership for Spoke 3 with co-leader the University of Bergamo, scientific responsible Prof. Barbara Turchetta, institutional responsible Prof. Piera Molinelli). Spoke 3 of the project (Historical and Cultural Linguistic Traditions, Sustainability of Interculturality), for WPs 4 and 5, has as its overall objective the establishment of a virtual study and research centre for the protection and enhancement of Italian culture related to linguistic and cultural diversity and the resulting multiple identities, in synergy with environmental diversity. In fact, the use of the documentary material stored in the numerous thematic, museum and institutional archives in Italy, which are expression of this knowledge heritage, is often severely limited or inhibited by the absence of integrated accessibility systems. The project activities thus involve the selection, documentation and valorization of oral culture materials, manuscripts and printed works – including those relating to the heritages of dialectal and minority realities – which, over time, bear witness to the multiple dissemination of cultural and scientific knowledge of the various territories, and of social, human and political relations between Italy, Europe and the rest of the world. The action guidelines concern the research and documentation of the sources in paper, digital, sound and ethnographic archives; the identification of the forms in which local knowledge is manifested and expressed (through languages); the creation of a dedicated portal, which can be used by a wide audience of researchers for study, documentation, dissemination and teaching purposes.

The activity of the research grant will be inserted within the framework of WP4: pre-existing or currently under construction archives on the written heritage of the past in Italy will be taken into consideration with the aim of enhancing the historical documentary heritage (a) of written sources in Italian and its historical/regional varieties and/or other languages (e.g. local dialects) and (b) different textual genres and types (e.g. correspondence, dicta testium, mercantile registers) that represent evidence of contacts, intercultural and multilingual relations in ancient times. The research focus is on collective memory and on the set of textual and cultural practices connected in general to material culture in ancient time with regard to the use and belonging of places, the sharing of knowledge, and the sedimentation of textual, cultural and social practices transmitted through languages. A second objective of the project is the establishment of a free-access portal with reserved areas for the valorization of historical heritage on which research and documentation actions will be based. The research grant project fits into this framework regarding two lines of action and research in particular. On the one hand, the activity will focus on the digital implementation of the paper sources into repertoires that are easily accessible online for a broad public; on the other, it will focus on the digital codification of the linguistic forms through which material culture is manifested and expressed (e.g., local expertise on the nature of places, in relation to the perception of processes of change, elements of risk and insecurity arising from knowledge of places). The objectives of the project will therefore be both the digitization of texts according to the coding formats identified in the overall project and the labelling of linguistic forms according to the theoretical-methodological criteria identified for WP4. The project will consist of 18 months of work, divided as follows:

- 1) identification and collection of written documentary sources to be digitized, both on a regional and national basis, which preserve significant data on the linguistic forms and representation of the Italian cultural heritage; preliminary analysis of the linguistic, textual and cultural characteristics of the documents and identification of the most significant linguistic phenomena; coordination with the project's IT group for their online implementation;
- 2) drafting of descriptive and interpretive summaries of the significant features in the documents;
- 3) coordination with the research group of WP4 and more
