

University of Bergamo (Italy)
Following an agreement with
Fairleigh Dickinson University (US)

2026 HUMANITIES SUMMER SCHOOL online learning

Bergamo (Italy)
16 June -10 July 2026

UNIVERSITÀ
DEGLI STUDI
DI BERGAMO

Dipartimento
di Lingue, Letterature
e Culture Straniere

Index

Page 3: General information

Page 4: Who is the course aimed at?

Page 5: Courses: 15-26 June 2026

Page 6: Courses: 29 June– 10 July 2026

Page 7: Location and Costs

Page 8: How to enroll

2023 Humanities Summer School

University of Bergamo (Italy)

15 June-10 July 2026, Bergamo (ITALY)

The Summer School is organized by the University of Bergamo following an agreement with Fairleigh Dickinson University (US).

Topics

The Summer School offers four online courses that focus on humanistic and social fields. Students may choose from 1 to 4 courses.

Each course is offered along an intensive 2-week program and each of them consists of a 30-hour program (3-4 hours/day). The courses are taught in English and held by Professors from the University of Bergamo and other universities.

Courses will be held from 15 June to 10 July. Attendance is compulsory (Monday to Friday).

Who is it aimed at?

The Summer school is open to university students from both Bachelor's and Master's from all academic disciplines.

The course is organized for:

- Unibg students
- Erasmus students at Unibg
- Students from Partner universities

Courses are taught in English and require a B2 level or higher (according to the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages).

Admitted students can choose from 1 to 4 courses. To maintain high standards of teaching, the number of students admitted is limited.

Each course is valuable for 5 or 6 academic credits in the Italian scale (ECTS), to be included in the Study Plan either as elective or as additional courses.

Each course may include partial tests and will end with a final written exam on the treated topics. This may also be substituted by a written paper in English to be delivered no later than a given date.

COURSES

15-26 June 2026

Walls or Bridges: Italy, Migration, and the Pitfalls of Globalization

Prof. Gloria Pastorino (Professor Emerita, Fairleigh Dickinson University)

Italy has been a country of mass migrations for a century and a half, both losing its people to countries that offer(ed) better working opportunities or welcoming a new labor force from several other countries, particularly in the past 40 years. Migrants to and from Italy have met with a similar, at times inhumane, treatment as suspect “others,” against whom communities need to build defenses to protect a fragile sense of self. Political agendas have always contributed to a social unrest that aims at criminalizing people rather than appreciating them as resources.

The course explores the different nature of these migrations through a socio-economic, political, and cultural lens, using essays, literature, films, and documentaries.

Digital Humanities: Theory and Practice

Prof. April Patrick (Rowan University)

Digital Humanities is a broad term that includes a wide range of approaches to engaging with literature, history, and art by using technological tools to provide new insights about those materials or new ways of accessing them. This course explores the goals and methods of digital humanities work and provides hands-on experience with textual analysis and distant reading, data analysis and visualization, network analysis, and digital editions and publishing. Each meeting will include theoretical foundation and history of digital humanities as a field, analysis of existing digital humanities projects, reading and discussion of literary texts (for summer 2026, the novel Frankenstein by Mary Shelley), and hands-on activities to use digital humanities tools. By the end of the course, students will create and present their own digital humanities project on a topic of their choice.

COURSES

29 June-10 July 2025

'Make' in Italy: An Introductory Lab on Entrepreneurship and Venture Creation in Cultural and Creative Industries

Supported by "Competencies and Resources for Entrepreneurial Orientation" (CREO) – Center for Young and Family Enterprise (CYFE), University of Bergamo; Course Director Prof. Davide Hahn

The entrepreneur is an agent of change and an innovator who identifies and acts upon opportunities across various domains. In today's globalized and interconnected economy, technological disruptions—such as artificial intelligence—and major demographic trends—such as population aging—create fertile ground for startup creation across sectors, not only in high-tech industries but also in the Cultural and Creative Industries (CCIs), including those tied to culture and the 'Made in Italy' brand (e.g., arts, humanities, food, tourism).

Starting from the fundamental theoretical foundations of entrepreneurship, the course introduces participants to core tools for generating and validating opportunities for new venture creation. These tools will be applied through a real-world challenge proposed by an organization operating in the CCIs. Students will respond to this challenge by developing and validating a startup opportunity. The aim of this challenge-based approach is to enable participants to internalize idea generation and validation methodologies by applying them to real problems and opportunities within the CCIs.

How to See the World. Contemporary Visual Cultures and Politics of the Gaze

Prof. Giuseppe Previtali (University of Bergamo)

The module provides a critical introduction to visual culture studies, offering the students with methodological tools to interpret images and visual media as crucial cultural agents of contemporary mediascapes. Moving from the idea that contemporary events – whether political, social, or cultural – are increasingly shaped by and circulated through visual forms, the course will frame visibility as a key site of ideological-political negotiation. By examining a heterogeneous range of media (from photography to cinema and interactive media), the course will explore how visual forms shape contemporary reality, particularly in contexts of conflict and crisis (e.g., war and insurgencies). Particular attention will be paid to the political dimension of aesthetics, the epistemological challenges posed by algorithmic images and artificial intelligence, and the role of visual culture in the construction of public discourse.

During the first week, the course will sketch a genealogy and methodology of visual studies, providing critical frameworks to address contemporary visibility. During the second week, the course will address the link between visual culture and conflicts, focusing on post-9/11 wars and offering insights from leading figures of the field (e.g., Mitchell, Mirzoeff, etc.).

Location

All the lectures will be held online and will be managed by the Department of Foreign Languages, Literatures and Cultures (University of Bergamo).

Address: Piazza Rosate, 2, Bergamo (Italy).

Maps

Fees

Registration to the courses is free for:

- Unibg students and FDU students
- Erasmus students who are spending their exchange at Unibg
- students coming from Partner Universities

Further information

Visit also our Official Website.

How to enroll

Be part of a fantastic experience!!! In order to take part in the Humanities Summer School, please read the Call for Applications and fill in the registration form downloadable from the website.

For further information write to humanitiessummerschool@unibg.it

Summer School Coordinator:

Prof. Francesca Guidotti (francesca.guidotti@unibg.it)

Deadline for registration: 20 April-20 May 2026, 12 noon
(CEST)
(subject to availability)

